Speaker Information:

Mark Dauberman has extensive public accounting experience including a short stay at Kenneth Leventhal & Company. Most of his experience, however, has been with local and regional firms. Most recently, he was a partner of NSBN, a Beverly Hills CPA and business consulting firm, where he served as director of the audit practice and was responsible for recruiting, training, business development, quality control, and strategic planning for the firm.

Mark's industry experience includes serving as assistant controller of a large trucking and warehousing firm. He has been both a controller and the Vice President of Finance and Administration for major real estate development companies. Mark has spent nearly 30 years as an entrepreneur, operating a business that prepared individuals for the CPA exam.

Mark currently provides CPE and technical staff training for CPA firms, private industry employers of accountants, and government organizations on topics that include applying the risk assessment standards, fraud, internal and external auditing, developing internal controls, strategic planning, and practice management. He provides consulting services to CPA firms, providing assistance on matters involving strategic planning; partner compensation issues; client management; and the planning, performance, and review of financial statement services.

He is a product of the California education system having completed his bachelor's degree in Accounting from CSU Northridge. He is currently enrolled in the Executive MBA program at the Peter Drucker and Masatoshi Ito School of Management at Claremont Graduate University, where he had been a student of Dr. Peter Drucker's in 1971.
